NSCID ON EXPLOITATION OF FOREIGN DOCUMENTS

A proposed NSCID No. 8 on foreign document exploitation was first drawn up on 13 January 1948 and submitted to ICAPS for discussion with an ad hoc committee of the IAC. As a result of Department of Army objections, a new draft was prepared on 3 March 1948. This was submitted to the Standing Committee of the IAC. However, State, Air and the JCS wanted to insert a provision to the effect that any exploitation would be done only "if agreed upon by the interested agencies." With such a provision an NSCID would have served no useful purpose and as no agreement could be reached in the Standing Committee, Chief, ICAPS on 5 April 1948 recommended to the DCI that the proposed NSCID No. 8 be abandoned. This recommendation was approved.

By September 1948 several of the IAC agencies were showing an interest in the idea of a central translation service, to be undertaken by CIA. On 3 September 1948 Chief, ICAPS presented the problem to the Standing Committee members of the IAC. An Ad Hoc Committee on central translation was established and on 11 April 1949 agreed that a central translation bureau was impracticable due to the desire of each agency to maintain its own translation section. However, it also agreed that "a common service of exploitation of foreign language publications would be desirable." As a result an Ad Hoc Committee on Exploitation of Foreign Documents was established. This committee worked through the summer and finally drafted a proposed NSCID on Exploitation of Foreign Language Publications. This was submitted by Chief, ICAPS to the Standing Committee Members of the IAC on 26 September 1949. Army and Navy requested changes in wording and so a revision of the proposed NSCID was circulated on 25 October 1949. At the request of State a small change in wording was made and another revision circulated on 18 November 1949. Army formally dissented to this revision and suggested changes. State also requested further changes. On 6 December 1949 another revision was circulated. This time Air requested changes. Unable to obtain agreement of the IAC agencies, the Chief, COAPS discontinued further efforts in December 1949.

On 29 March 1951 the AD/O took the initiative to reopen the question in a memorandum to AD/IC requesting that the problem be taken up with the IAC members. On 1 May 1951 a meeting was called of working-level representatives of the IAC. Air Force representatives presented a request for a change in wording of the CIA draft that could not be resolved at that meeting. A few days later Chief, FDD and Air Force representatives met and agreed upon changes amending one paragraph. Following this the Advisor for Management and the Assistant Deputy (Administration) objected to the entire proposal. A paper was then presented on 23 July 1951 outlining the entire problem to the DCI, DDCI, DD/P, DD/A and all Assistant Directors with the recommendation that a proposed NSCID be presented to the IAC. Approval of this paper was withheld pending a survey by the Senior Consultant to the DCI, Mr. [redacted] of the Office of Operations. After his survey on 13 November 1951 Mr. [redacted] recommended that the proposed NSCID forwarded with the 23 July 1951 paper be submitted for discussion with the IAC. Since this recommendation was among those approved by the DDCI and the DDP on 5 February 1952, action is currently being taken by OIC and FDD to coordinate a revised draft with the appropriate representatives of the IAC agencies as a preliminary to formal discussion of the subject by the IAC.
